My answers to the chapter questions – these are just to give you some ideas; it is easy enough to find reasonably good answers with a modicum of research using the internet or your library.
 Character lists – The main five characters are included in the Brown Dragon sample on the website. The rest you can track as the books are read if you think it is important.
 List of Fallacies – Dozens of lists of logical fallacies with examples are available on the internet. Just don't trust AI chatbots. They are very bad at logical fallacies, although by the time you read this, they may have improved. Just use caution.
 History, Geography, Biology, and Technology of Low Check – Most of this can be discovered by reading the stories, at least the important parts.
 Figures of Speech - Dozens of lists of figures of speech with examples are available on the internet. Again, be cautious with chatbots. If they don't know the answer, they make something up instead of admitting they don't know.

The point is that if you are willing to work with the internet, the only thing you will have to buy is the 8 ebooks, and they are not expensive.
